Gov. Gifford Pinchot announced the board is considering the sponsorship of an education relief program designed to give training to unemployed persons and also to provide idle teachers with work. The program will be available to adults only and will consist of vocational work and instruction in various trades.

Figures from the department of labor and industry showed that unemployment in Pennsylvania dropped 9 per cent in July. The report showed that 1,147,179 persons, or 30.8 per cent of the working population, were not working at the middle of July. This was a drop of 112,808 from the mid-June figure.

Erie Biddle, executive director of the state board, reported the unit system of food distribution is in existence in 30 counties and that 19

A local groceryman tells of smelling a peculiar odor of smoke in his store the other day, and on investigation, found that one of his customers, who was smoking a cigar, had neglected to remove the cellophane wrapping. He asserts the effect was startling.

A young married couple received a beating at the hands of their friends last evening, which they will long remember. They were fastened to a low two-wheeled cart, and pulled along over the main streets of the city behind an automobile. After being almost overcome by the gasoline fumes, they were finally released.

A couple from Akron had a long walk Tuesday afternoon hunting "the marrying snare". H. M. Reynolds, of Union township, Mr. Reynolds had married the groom's sister and husband a short time ago and had advised her brother to be married at the same place, so he and his bride-to-be came by train to New Castle, and thinking the Reynolds place was close to the station, began to walk out that way, continuing to walk until they finally came to his home.

With one exception, registrations at noon today were lighter than had been anticipated, even taking into consideration the inclement weather. If Secretary of Agriculture Wallace will get busy and promote a lot of these corn-eating contests, there is no reason why it can be made as popular as bridge (it has much more to recommend it). Well, with a lot of these contests, they won't have to be plowing up every third row of corn.

Home Is Burned At Harlansburg

Eight Room Dwelling On McCracken Heirs Property Burns Wednesday

Large eight-room frame dwelling on the McCracken heirs property on the dirt road at Harlansburg, leading to Rock Springs, occupied by Ray Heckathorn and family, was burned to the ground early Wednesday afternoon.

The fire had its inception in the shingle roof of the building, one of the larger homes of the Harlansburg district, and is believed to have started from a spark from the chimney, as the family had a fire in the kitchen stove.

As there was nothing in the district but hand extinguishers to combat the fire, the flames spread rapidly and consumed the home and such of the contents as the neighbors were unable to assist the family in getting out.

The loss is estimated at between $4,000 and $5,000 dollars and is covered in part at least by insurance.

Prosecution Shows Lamson Sent Flowers To Sara Kelly Frequently

FLORIST PROVES BLOW TO DEFENSE

By ERNESTINE BALL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

SAN JOSE, Cal., Aug. 31.—Sara Kelley, the "other woman" in the Lamson murder mystery trial, has been cast by the defense to play the role of platonic love.

It was going to be a "natural", the defense said, Sara Kelley would come into court and convince any jury that David Lamson's visits to her in Sacramento were for business and professional reasons only.

Sent Flowers To Sara

But yesterday the prosecution put on the witness stand Miriam M. Johnson, Sacramento florist. She evidently does not believe that life is just a bed of roses for a business woman. She keeps her telegrams and bills in perfect order—incidentally she said that David Lamson had paid all his bills for flowers sent to Sara Kelley. The lady florist did not seem to have the impression that David Lamson and Sara Kelley were playing a scene from platonic love

Kingfish Silent On Reaching New Orleans

(International News Service)
NEW ORLEANS, La., Aug. 31.—After a dramatic homecoming from the battle of Long Island, in which a local newspaper photographer was manhandled, Senator Huey P. Long today maintained a guarded silence.

"I have nothing to say," was his response to questions concerning the set-to at the Sands Point Bath Club on Long Island.

One of the senator's guards pushed a photographer down an embankment as he tried to take a picture of the "Kingfish" and his wounded forehead alighting from the train. Long then departed for his home.

The senator refused to comment on an offer to appear as an attraction at Coney Island and in a rematch at Chicago of the notable bath club bout.

After the truck had entered the factory, the pickets massed as if to rush the doors. Strike breakers hurled lead sash weights from the windows. One of the missiles struck the policeman and another injured a girl.

Rung Hearing On License Re-opened

Proprietor At Lakewood Beach Claims That She Has Additional Evidence

Additional testimony is to be taken before Judge James A. Chambers tomorrow morning on the rule issued at the request of County Treasurer William O. Pitts on Hermine Rung to show cause why her license to sell beer at Lakewood Beach should not be revoked.

Testimony was taken in this case about a week ago and arguments were made, but Mrs. Rung has asked for a re-hearing at which she desires to offer additional testimony.

County Treasurer Pitts offered all of his testimony at the original hearing.

Mrs. Rung is putting up a vigorous contest on the grounds that her license covered both the refreshment stand and the building used for picnics. Her contention is that the word "premises" in the application included both places.

Roosevelt On Trip Back To Capitol Today

President Boards Vincent Astor's Yacht For Sea Trip Back To Washington

COAL CODE IS STILL UNSIGNED

(International News Service)
POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Aug. 31.—President Roosevelt started the return trip to Washington after a ten day vacation in his Hyde Park home today, and he had not signed the coal code when he left.

The executive left here at 12:15 p. m. daylight saving time aboard Vincent Astor's yacht the "Nourmahal" and will arrive in Washington Monday or Tuesday morning.

Recovery administrators Hugh S. Johnson telephoned the president just before he left his home this morning that he was making progress on the fair competition code for the coal industry, but it was not ready for signing today.

The president is confident the code will be ready for his signature when he arrives in Washington on Monday or Tuesday, however. He had expected to affix his signature to the code before leaving here, after Johnson reported late last week that he had secured agreement on the broad principles of the code from both operators and labor.

Johnson's report this morning was optimistic, however, it was revealed here, and the president did not feel that the added delay means anything more than the usual troublesome work of getting everyone in the industry together on the details of the code.

lying face downward near the haystacks. His clothing practically burned off. He carried him out of the blaze and summoned an ambulance through Miss Nell M. Paland, a neighbor. Mr. Keast was brought to the Jameson Memorial hospital at 3:15 and lived until 10:10.

It is believed that Mr. Keast had set fire to the brush he was cutting out of the fence rows and that it spread to the grass and thence to the haystacks. In endeavoring to fight the blaze, he is believed to have been overcome and had fallen, his body being only a few feet away from the furious blaze which resulted when the haystacks took fire.

He was one of the pioneer residents of Lawrence county, and lived in the vicinity of Edenburg and later at the farm, now occupied by Mr. Shaner, for many years, removing to Youngstown later in life, where he engaged in business.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Cora Keast; two children, Carl Keast of Elmira, N. Y., and Miss Bessie Keast at home; and the following sisters: Mrs. Emma Baer, of this city, Mrs. Winfield Miller, of Hendersonville, N. ## LAST GOLD STAR PILGRIMAGE

HIDDEN away in a corner of the news the other day was a small item announcing that the last of the Gold Star mothers had completed the pilgrimage to the battlefield cemeteries of France.

In 1929 congress voted the necessary funds to provide transportation for the war mothers and widows who desired to visit the battlefield graves of their sons and husbands. The quartermaster corps was appointed their guardian for the journey and now reports that 6,674 women availed themselves of the opportunity, while 9,812 declined.

Where it was possible and the families desired it bodies were exhumed and brought home for burial, particularly in the cases of Americans who lost their lives in Russia. But that was possible in relatively few cases so the government did the next best thing—offered to pay the expenses of all mothers and widows of war heroes who desired to visit the last resting place of the war dead in Flanders field.

It was a fine gesture and the nation rejoices that so many were able to take advantage of their country's generous offer. Few of the 6,674 could have made the pilgrimage at their own expense.

Time may heal the wounds left on the hearts of mothers and widows but it could never erase the thought they had never seen the grave of son or husband.

HELPING LARGE NUMBERS

President Roosevelt has decided to continue the work of the civilian conservation corps through the winter. This will mean jobs for 300,000 or more young men, and to that extent will help relieve the unemployment situation.

How great will be the relief needs confronting the country the coming winter can not yet be known. Employment is increasing but it can not increase rapidly enough to take care of all persons in need of jobs. Knowledge of this fact no doubt was a factor in causing the president to order a six-months' extension of the conservation work.

Several good purposes are being served by the conservation program. Something is being accomplished in conservation. This feature of the work, however, is not its most important part. The main purpose in launching the undertaking was to provide work for the unemployed. The present enlistment is placed at about 300,000, which means that this number of formerly idle men are now earning their own living and contributing to the support of others. In addition to earning a living, they are benefiting in another way. The outdoor, healthful employment is giving them sturdier bodies.

As many as possible of the men now employed will be encouraged to quit the corps and obtain private employment in order that others who have not been able to find room in the forestry work may enlist for the second six-months' period. This is a wise policy, which will permit extension of the benefits of conservation employment to a greater number of men. Some of the camps will be moved from the colder areas of the country to warmer sections to escape the rigors of winter.

It is to be hoped that conditions soon may permit abandonment of the form of relief represented in the conservation work, but until the unemployment emergency passes it can fill a very important need. It should prove especially helpful during the winter months.

GANGSTERISM ABROAD

The threat of gangsterism and racketeering doesn't seem to worry French officials.

The heads of two banks and of several cafes in Paris recently received letters in which the writers threatened to bomb their places of business unless certain sums of money were deposited in designated places. Although the police were spurred to sharper watch, no alarm was evident.

"Neither cafes nor banks will be blown up in Paris," said L'Intransigeant, apparently reflecting official opinion, "because, in order for gangsterism and kidnaping to become national industries, there must be assured immunity, complicity on the part of the authorities and complacent public opinion."

This summing up of the situation is not far from the truth, as developments in the United States have proved.

It would be interesting to see how France and other European nations, noted for keeping crime at a minimum, would deal with an outbreak of the American brand of gangsterism. Apparently neither their own criminals nor fugitives from the United States yet have had the courage to challenge the authorities on the issue.

NATURE HAS NO FAVORITES

A storm of hurricane force lashes the Eastern coast of the United States. Shipping is destroyed, lives are taken, and millions in property are destroyed.

Once again nature proves that she has no favorites among localities. Despite the protest of the Chamber of Commerce in California, that state not so long ago, was shaken by an earthquake, with a heavy toll of lives. Before that Florida, the "Land of Perpetual Sunshine," witnessed the devastation that a tropical cyclone can cause in the space of a few minutes.

In spite of these frequent disasters, visited upon various sections of the country by the fickle elements, there is still the provincial feeling of being "God's favored spot" to be found in states and cities fortunate enough to be out of the path of nature's trade.

The newspapers on the West Coast, from Portland to San Diego will publish in screaming headlines the fact that the East is "being pounded to pieces by the sea." When the hurricane hit Miami, the papers of San Francisco, and Los Angeles in particular, proclaimed in six inch type "Florida Inundated." Editorials appeared, citing the advantage of living in California, free from the ravages of hurricanes, lightning and tidal waves.

Florida retaliates when the Western states tremble in the rumblings of an "earth tremor" by "scare headlines" stating "West Coast Rocked by Gigantic Upheaval." And thus it goes. Petty and childish jealousy, inspired by intense sectional feeling, not unlinked with mercenary motives, is voiced whenever disaster strikes a distant section of this country. One would think by this time that there is a realization of the fact that in the eyes of "Zeus" there are no "chosen people, states, or cities" and each in turn bear the brunt of wrath without discrimination or favoritism.

Philosophers have long agreed that a civilization is made by its popular songs. You doubt it? Well, listen, and then look at us.

A LOOK ON A WOMAN'S FACE

Somehow every woman—as far as my observation has gone—looks upon almost every man as a child.

She may not say so. She's not likely to tell him that this is her opinion of him. But in her heart she feels that she is as old as the race of woman—that in her is the inherited wisdom of all the women who have ever lived—and that the experience of all mothers, all wives, all sweethearts, has come down to her.

But that a man, poor child, knows only what he has discovered and been told in this little life and cannot be expected to know very much; no matter how talented, how learned, how imposing, how perceptive, how dear and intelligent he may be.

How do I know all this? Did a woman tell me? Did I read it in a book? No, I have read it on women's faces.

I have seen it in a certain way they look at men. (I have had that look turned on me, too—and I know what it means, and it cannot mean anything else but this, that any woman feels wiser than any man.) It's not a sneering look. It is not contemptuous, nor combative. It may be gentle and tender and serene. But, when a man once sees it on a woman's face, the battle is over; the argument is finished, there's nothing more to be said. Man's prestige is down, the woman's flag of victory is flying. Suddenly she sees him as a child, a stumbling faltering, charming but limited child who knows little of life and can never for all his vaunted powers of perception and analysis, know a tenth what a woman knows when she is born into this world.

(Do I agree that this is true? That has nothing to do with these paragraphs. I'm writing, merely, about a look I have seen on women's faces—and this is the end of the article.)

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

VIGILANTES?

The escape of the racketeers from the alleged circle of sixty or six hundred (as you like to believe) Chicago policemen does not exhibit any great cleverness on the part of the racketeers. I believe that the intelligent person has any idea that the intention was to catch them. It was a beautiful grandstand play on the part of the Chicago police.

Policemen, individually, are usually brave, fearless men, but when they are handicapped by instructions from their higher-ups, they become as a class nothing less than a joke and a very serious joke. It is customary now—a-days to accuse Al Capone of being the supreme gangster. I believe Al Capone whatever else he may be or may have been, has been only a clever tool in the hands of a man or a company of men who occupy handsome suites of offices in Chicago, ostensibly, following a very honorable calling.

Probably, the head of the racketeers of Chicago attends church regularly and is regarded as a highly honorable gentleman. The "wolves" who are making a business of kidnaping and blackmailing, are not the gunmen, but the directors of the gunmen.

The people of the great cities of the nation when they find out, if they ever do, who are the real heads; who are the ones who profit by America's crime, may take the law into their own hands and with the terrible swiftness of the San Francisco Vigilantes of the '50s.

SUNSET.

Some days die, as some men. Softly and peacefully, and then Others with pain-wracked twisted forms

Go to their graves 'mid gales and storms. And knowing only skies of gray And the wind's weird wail they pass away.

I watched the death of yesterday. Golden the crouch on which it lay. Imperial purple edged a cloud As if it were a monarch's shroud, And there was neither pain nor fright

To mar the silence of the night. Beauty and glory watched beside The old day's bed until it died. Troops rolled in scarlet seemed to stay

To bear the noble corpse away. Then hooded dusk with footsteps slow Lighted night's candles, row by row.

Lord, for my loved ones, this I pray: Sweet be the sunset of their day! May beauty grace their lives, and when Thou call'st their spirits home again May trails of glory round them sweep

As silently they fall asleep. (Copyright, 1933, Edgar A. Guest)

Symposium of Editorial Views By Newspapers of Nations on Important Subjects as Edited by Consolidated Press AssociationSteel Code For Limited Time
Takes Key Position In Battle

Labor Provisions Held Chief Influence in Creating Conflict Over Conditions Dictated By Government Forces

Adoption of a steel code for 90 days, as a test of the effect of the recovery program, puts that industry into a key position, and the country awaits the results of the agreement. Labor provisions are declared to have been the chief cause of delay, but the decision in favor of the freedom of the employee to establish such affiliations as he desires is viewed as establishing a new labor policy.

"The steel industry," says the CHICAGO DAILY NEWS, "doubtless was wise in submitting to the recovery program on the terms offered." That paper holds that "the spirit embodied in the code may be said to represent the attitude of the more thoughtful observers of the NRA program." The Daily News suggests that "of the variations of the steel code from the others, the linking of additional labor costs and operating ratios is the most interesting." The NEWARK EVENING NEWS describes labor relations as "the major issue as to steel," observing that "the open shop clause comes out of the code, and the recovery act's language on that point still remains to be officially interpreted." That paper concludes that "the act provides pretty clearly that employees shall be untrammelled in making their own choice of the means and manner of organizing to implement collective bargaining."

"Codification of the industry is something of an event in the development of the NRA," avers the MINNEAPOLIS TRIBUNE with this interpretation of the course of the proceeding. "Although the steel group yielded to the government on its proposal for 'company unions' and though the automobile group may be convinced that it should abandon its 'traditional' insistence on the open shop, the point at issue will still be of uncertain definition. While the desire to reach some kind of an agreement may be strong enough to bring about some compromise now, this question and several others, among them the fixing of prices, will still be awaiting a definite solution."

"Both sides," as understood by the YOUNGSTOWN VINDICATOR, "are satisfied with the collective-bargaining provisions of the code. Steel men," continues that paper, "are pleased that the way is left open for the men to join company unions; representatives of the American Federation of Labor are pleased that the code provides specifically that employees 'shall have the right to organize and bargain collectively through representatives of their own choosing, and shall be free from the interference, restraints or coercion of the employers of labor, or their agents, in the designation of such representatives.'" The SAN JOSE MERCURY HERALD feels that in view of the course of the controversy and the need of quick action, "there should be industrial statesmanship in the leaders on both sides."

"Over against restrictive regulation," says the WALL STREET JOURNAL, "the common advantages which may be expected to accrue from a nationwide effort to achieve a greater and more rapid improvement in all business than a merely 'natural' recovery would produce."

The AKRON BEACON JOURNAL avers that "any rash assertion of independence from government restraints would be to take account of the ruinous results to which such independence in the past has led."

The GLENDALE (CALIF.) NEWS-PRESS declares that "the steel magnates are not denied the right to organize and have done so; it is clear that labor has an equal right."

"A new day is heralded in this basic industry," asserts the CLEVELAND PLAIN DEALER, while the ROCHESTER TIMES-UNION offers the judgment that "it has always been necessary for industry to adapt itself to changes, and it can adapt itself to the changes proposed under NRA, if all business units accept the new system."

The OAKLAND TRIBUNE puts the steel industry into the position of "a test which a large part of the industrial nation was watching," and the OKLAHOMA CITY TIMES suggests that "success must depend somewhat on the ability of business and industry to meet the obviously increased overhead and still survive."

The OSHKOSH DAILY NORTHWESTERN believes that "the agreement is of good augury for the extension and success of the entire recovery program."

While assuming that "whatever concessions the steel operators made were made grudgingly," the SCRANTON TIMES holds that Mr. Roosevelt and Gen. Johnson "would not hesitate to go to bat in real earnest, should the occasion warrant it."

The ESCANABA DAILY PRESS warns that "both big and little industries must make an honest effort at co-operation before any measure of success can be possible."

Whatever you want in a car... beauty, speed, performance, comfort or economy... you will find it in the big new Ford V-8. Drive it; put it to your own favorite test. Your local dealer will gladly supply a courtesy car. Since the new Ford is the only V-8 under $2,000.00, your Ford dealer can afford to let this remarkable car speak for itself. ## Await Action By Henry Ford

President Interested In The Failure Of Ford To Accept Auto Code

SAY FORD FEARS WALL ST. DOMINATION

(International News Service)
HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 31.—President Roosevelt awaited latest information on the failure of Henry Ford to accept the automobile industry code of fair competition under the NRA today.

Recovery Administrator Hugh Johnson was to send the president the code for signing before the executive leaves on his return trip to Washington, and the information on Ford's attitude was expected in the same data.

Mr. Roosevelt is intensely interested in the Ford policy with regard to the NRA.

It was plain here he does not intend doing anything until new developments come, but he is watching it very closely.

Fears Wall St. Domination.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Fear of Wall Street domination and the difficulty of adjusting the intricate operations of his huge business are the reasons most frequently advanced in national recovery administration circles today for the apparent reluctance of Henry Ford to sign the code for the automobile industry.

With Hugh S. Johnson under orders from President Roosevelt to make a report on the Ford case today, a showdown between the automobile manufacturer and the administration by Sept. 5 appeared certain.

Under the recovery law, Ford is required to conform to the automobile code when it is effective on next Tuesday, or subject himself to a $500 a day penalty, according to recovery officials.
Close observers of the operations of Ford believe he objects strongly to provisions of the code which make the national automobile chamber of commerce an enforcement agency. Under the code the chamber would have the right to inspect Ford's books, and he has for years refused to become a member of this organization.

The Ford Company also would be subject to orders from the government for detailed reports of its operations. Ford is believed by many here to be fearful the secrets of his business would be quickly known to Wall Street.

"In announcing my candidacy for re-election to City Council, I do so, with the experience of the past four years deeply impressed in my mind. The facts and the intricacies of my administration of my department are in the record. I honestly believe that they will bear reflection. The extent to which this experience should count is to be determined by you on September nineteenth.

"Due to the press of business in my office, it will be impossible for me to make an extensive canvass or to see each voter individually, but I personally feel, that on the strength of that record and experience, I am in a position to render you and the City of New Castle an intelligent and competent service. Insane, Landlady

(International News Service)
GREENSBURG, Pa., Aug. 31.—Medical testimony to prove Robert Frye, 23, insane, was expected to be introduced here this afternoon by defense counsel in a final effort to save the youth from the electric chair for the murder of his landlady, Mrs. Mae Clemens.

Frye stabbed the woman to death in her home June 25 after she ordered him to leave the house. The youth told of having been intimate with the dead woman when he took the stand in his own defense. Many discrepancies appeared in the youth's testimony. Under cross examination by the state, he first said he did not remember killing the woman. Later he said: "I just had to do it."

Dairymen Agree To Support NRA; To Get Up Code

Preliminary Steps Are Taken At Enthusiastic Meeting At Court House

An enthusiastic meeting of about 200 members of the Lawrence County Milk Producers Association was held last night at the court house. Charles Emery of Scott township, presided as chairman, with William Walton of Scott township, as secretary.

The object of the meeting was to get together on a code for the milk industry in Lawrence county. All of the members present expressed themselves as being in hearty sympathy with the N. R. A. movement. At the present time different prices are being paid producers for their milk. Some are getting $1.85 per 100 pounds for what is known as 3.5 milk. There is close to 12 gallons in 100 pounds of milk. Other prices vary. At the creameries it is understood that the price paid is $1.50 per 100. From 8 to 10 cents per gallon is paid in some districts. It is proposed under the code to be formed to make a uniform price throughout the county. A code committee was appointed; the members being Harold Hoyer, William Walton, Charles Emery, John Benson, David Byler and Howard White. One other member is to be named later.

This committee will meet at the farm bureau in this city tomorrow afternoon for the purpose of formulating the code. A telegram was sent to Washington stating that the code would be sent within a few days.

It was the sense of the meeting that this code should be on a fifty-fifty basis, as between the producers, and distributors. This means that the retail price of milk is to be double the price paid to the producer. In the past the retail, in many instances, has received more than double the price paid. Producers take the stand that with the investment in farms, stock and labor, they should receive a more equitable share of milk prices.

The Governor Says

What Is Going On
In Harrisburg—
And Why

By GIFFORD PINCHOT
Governor of Pennsylvania

Every Pennsylvanian interested in State Government should know where the money comes from to operate the State Government and how it is spent.

Long involved tables of statistics are usually far from interesting reading, but I have prepared a brief outline, in plain English, reporting on the State's income and outgo for the two-year period ending May 31, 1933, which I hope will be of interest to every intelligent person in the state.

I call your particular interest to the fact that most of the income for the general expenses of Government is from taxes on corporations and on inheritances. The State levies no tax on real estate.

I call your particular attention to the fact that the largest expenditures were for highways, education and health and welfare.

One June 1, 1931, the State had cash in its operating funds a total of $65,329,364.89. Exactly two years later it had a cash balance of $38,135,284.26. This May 31st total was encumbered by active legislative appropriations in the amount of $31,693,215.60, so that there really was left in the Treasury on that date $6,442,038.66 which was available for the biennium beginning June 1, 1933.

This surplus was there only because of the $14,400,000 payments

Hard CORNS

Gone In 4 Days
Roots and All

Out to stay out—selling like hot cakes in Great Britain and now in America—the pleasant, easy way to get rid of corns—a joyous, refreshing, incorporating foot bath for 3 or 4 nights and then lift out the corns and roots and all.

It's the modern way—the sensible way to take out corns—to abolish callouses—to dissolve the hard skin from heels and toes and to put your feet in good vigorous condition so that you can walk and run and jump and dance with ease and pleasure.

Just ask for a box of Radox at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., New Castle Drug Co., or any modern drugstore—2 sizes 45c and 85c—you'll be delighted.

of the Dorrance inheritance tax a short time before the biennium ended. If this money had been spent for relief, as many demanded, the Commonwealth would be in real trouble today.

The total receipts of the State Government in the two year period ended May 31, '33 were $315,297,732.43. Fifty seven per cent of this or $178,866,324.51 was paid into the General Fund.

It was made up as follows:
Capital stock tax.....$38,636,540.83
Loans tax.....14,094,254.08
Insurance prem. tax.....12,543,061.12
Gross receipts tax.....7,665,182.09
Sales tax.....9,118,244.41
Inheritance tax.....49,934,863.56
Receipts from operation.....16,350,404.55

The motor license fund received $130,479,344.47 or 41.5 per cent of the total receipts. His wa. made up as follows:
Liquid fuels tax.....$53,075,006.10
Motor licenses.....56,846,980.46
Federal aid and contributions by local authorities.....18,132,797.62

The other special operating funds namely, banking, fish, game and State Farm Products Show Commission received $4,952,063.45 or 1.5 per cent of the total receipts.

That is where the money came from.

Now for where it went.
The expenditures for the biennium were $342,891,843.06, exceeding the current receipts by $27,400,000. Of course this excess of expenses over receipts was made possible by the cash balance on hand June 1, 1931. There was no deficit.

The expenses may be broken down as follows:
Highways, 32 per cent of the total expenses $108,547,828.33
Education, 27 per cent of the total expenses, $92,024,025.39
Health and welfare, 14 per cent of the total expenses, $47,929,811.15
Emergency relief, 8 per cent of the total expenses $27,260,477.24
State road bond, interest and sinking fund, 4 per cent of the total expenses, $13,532,712.88

Forestry, fish and game conservation, 2 per cent of the total expenses, $7,890,572.95
General Government and services such as agriculture, etc., 13 per cent of the total expenses, $45,560,415.11.

The expenditures for education, health and welfare and general government were not supported entirely from taxation. Education earned $5,796,900.07; health and welfare $10,111,950.13 and general governmental departments, $5,164,066.66 from their activities of licensing, law enforcement, and operation of State-owned institutions.

It might be well to point out right here that the Turner Economy bill about which there was such a to-do by the Republican Organization in the recent session, was directed almost exclusively at this 13 per cent for general government expenses—a small part of the total budget. As has been conclusively proven, the Turner bill not only would have failed to effect any economies, but in the end it would have been very costly to the Commonwealth thru destruction of the efficiency of the various departments.

In the table above is the item of $27,260,477.24 for emergency relief. This refers only to State funds. In addition to that amount there was contributed by the Federal Government a total of $22,600,674.88 making a total expenditure for the State Emergency Relief of $49,861,152.12. This fifty millions for relief was spent in the two years ending May 31, 1933.

Of the $27,260,477.24 State Funds expended for emergency relief approximately $13,000,000 was derived from savings made in appropriations as approved by the Legislature in the 1931 regular session.

There I think you have the story of the State's finances for the past two years in a nut shell.

ELIMSPORT CAMP REHABILITATED

Forestry Youths Resume Regular Routine After Storm Damage Is Repaired

By VICTOR O. DRIVER
ELIMSPORT, Pa., Aug. 30.—

Storm clouds have rolled by, mists have risen and the waters receded, and again we find ourselves high and dry, mostly high. This rehabilitation was preceded by a furious rain storm that caused the streams to overflow and flood surrounding areas. The roads served as temporary current lanes making traffic movement a hazardous undertaking. The townspeople inform us that it was the severest storm that has occurred here during the last ten years.

Saturday afternoon our camp was the center of sporting interest, being the place for the initial district boxing elimination contest. Merle Parks, in top form, was the winner of a classy bout. Fighting cautiously at the beginning of the bout he suddenly cut loose and won by a unanimous decision. Charles "Bub" Jones, Tom Cranney, Orville Grossman and Steve Russo were among those who thronged to the contest.

Our company ball team will meet the strong Trout Run nine on September 10. Trout Run's team includes several New Castle baseball stars as: Charles "Bub" Jones, player-manager; Joe Wrona, L. Ostrosky and T. Russo. The competition appears to be equally divided.

Our entire camp is invited to witness a contest to be held on September 7. This will be a ball game between the Williamsport Grays and Harrisburg, members of the fast Penn-Ohio League.

Our company commander, Ralph E. Hill, who recently was the recipient of a deserved promotion, departed from our camp to attend new duties. In addition to his departure the company lieutenant, who because of his remarkable ability to establish an idealistic camp, was transferred to a new location to again demonstrate his skill. We held separate farewell banquets and presented each with an appropriate gift. While we will keenly feel their loss, we wish them the best luck in their new venture.

The camp is again sponsoring a dance, which will be held here on September 8. The first dance was such a success that we are hopeful of continuing this pleasant diversion.

AUXILIARY MEETS

The Ladies Auxiliary of the American Legion held their semi-monthly meeting Monday evening in the Legion Home. A very interesting article, "The Billet Day by Day," by Superintendent of American Legion Children's Billet, of Otter Lake, Mich., was read by Maude Carr. Support of the N. R. A. was pledged by the unit.

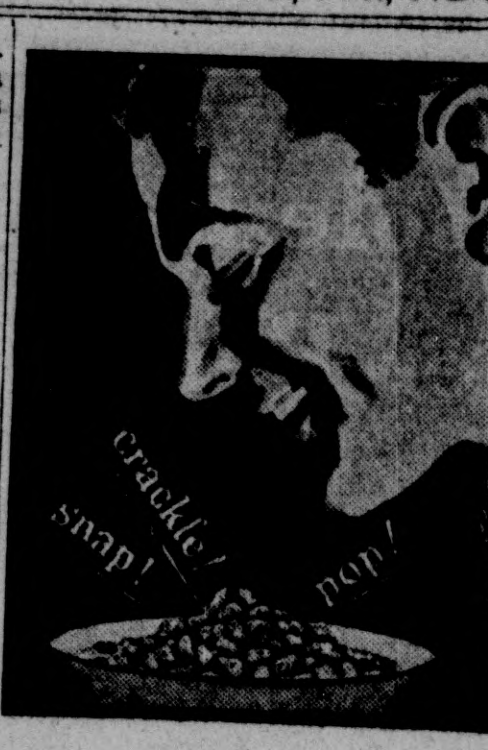

At a late hour delicious refreshments were served to the unit and post members. The next meeting will be held Monday evening, September 10, with Maude Carr, Hazel Carr, Hazel Butler and Frances Campbell serving as the lunch committee.

Local Agencies Of NRA Cannot Enforce Code

Punishment Of Violations Rests With National Organization, Director
Says

MUST NOT FORCE CLOSING HOURS

Reports that local Recovery Boards in several cities have undertaken to withdraw the N. R. A. Blue Eagle from merchants and merchants have undertaken to compel observance of store closing hours prompted T. S. Hammond, executive director of the Blue Eagle division for the National Recovery Administration to issue the following statement:

"The National Recovery Administration in Washington has not delegated its authority to punish violators of the President's Agreement to any local agency. No one has power to take back the Blue Eagle except upon specific instructions from Washington.

"Local authorities are instructed and encouraged to investigate and report to their State Recovery Boards upon all violations. Further, they are encouraged in each case to attempt to reach an understanding with the employer involved, so that he may comply with the President's Agreement without having to resort to Washington. Whenever Washington is informed of a definite, deliberate violation in a case where conciliation has been attempted and failed, prompt and effective action will be taken.

No Maximum Limit
"The President's Agreement sets no maximum limit on the weekly business hours of a store of service operation. In fact, in Paragraph 2 of the Agreement, the employer agrees not to reduce these hours below 52 in any week. In some communities, merchants are making local agreements to restrict the weekly hours of operation of all retail stores and in some cases local authorities are punishing those whose breach this agreement by removal of the N. R. A. insignia. This is not only a usurpation of power with regard to the insignia, as explained above, but is also contrary to the spirit of the President's Agreement, which to increase employment by shortening the hours of individual employees without reducing the number of hours or service operation.

In the same statement, Director Hammond clarified the status under the President's agreement of "individual owner-proprietors" as follows:

"Individual owners-proprietors with no employees may obtain the Blue Eagle by signing the President's Agreement and complying with all the provisions thereof with which it is possible to comply without employees. If such an owner later takes on employees he is automatically bound to comply with the labor provisions of the President's Agreement."

ALL INDUSTRY UNDER CODES BY NOVEMBER 1

Plans On Codes Are Being Pushed

Most Of Key Industries Are Already In Fold, It Is Announced

BIGGEST JOB IS JUST BEGINNING

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—The job of bringing American industry under codes of fair competition will be completed by November 1, under plans being developed by national recovery administration officials today.

With most of the key industries already in the fold, executives of the recovery administration believe the immense task of proclaiming codes for smaller industries may be accomplished within 60 days.

The completion of codes is regarded by most recovery officials as only the beginning of the biggest job of the administration—that of policing industry.

Transition Period Arrives
Believing that a transition period has arrived, recovery officials are now considering plans to merge the work of deputies handling codes into administration. A decrease in the number of employees is expected in the next two weeks.

An elaborate short-cut plan to blanket the nation with permanent codes is being worked out under the direction of Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson. The work will be carried on at high speed in the belief that industries complying with the higher wage and hours provisions of codes will be injured if there is delay in bringing all in.

The nationwide drive now under way for the president's employment agreement—or temporary codes—ends Labor Day. Under the president's order, a deadline is established on September 1 for the submission of codes.

Industries which have not filed codes by tonight will be subject to summary orders for the holding of hearings preparatory to proclaiming codes.

LITTLE HEN IS DOING HER PART

"I'm doing my part" is the sentiment of a certain little brown hen, savior of a chicken family owned by Herman Buchner, 1610 Albert street, and she said it with an egg.

Her NRA egg is a perfect example of what bigger and better ones should be. It weighs 4½ ounces, measures 8 inches in circumference lengthways and 6 inches around the center.

But the most remarkable feature of the super egg was discovered accidentally by Mr. Buchner when bringing it down to The News today. He dropped it and, wonder of wonders, it didn't break.

It has a crack in the side, true, but so does the Liberty Bell and no one thinks the less of it.

New Castle High Team Looks Good In Training Camp

Coach Philip H. Bridenbaugh Has Plenty Of Good Material For This Fall

End Jobs Are In Doubt, Remainder Of Line Just About Set, Is Indicated

Head Coach Philip H. Bridenbaugh's voice could be heard above the din and noise of a healthy young squad of 33 sunburned and tanned football boys Wednesday afternoon at Muddy Creek Falls camp as he directed the candidates through their paces. Signal drill with three teams scampering around the spacious training field was in order.

The candidates have advanced to the signal stage. Following signal drill each of the players was required to hit the "dummy" or tackling if you prefer it, several times. The boys must have thought that the tackling dummy was Braddock High opponents the way they tore into it.

Line Looks Good
New Castle's line this year is rather well fortified. Remaining from last year's big powerful front wall are the two Sholl brothers, "Possum" and Fred, Walter Raskowski, Humphries, Howley, Palkovitch. Howley will likely be the center, he is leading candidate at this writing. The others named above will handle the guards and tackles. The ends are more of a mystery at present. With Jack Hitchen and Charles Fleming apparently having the call for the first team wing posts, Miles is another lad who will be hard to beat out for an end job.

The backfield is not causing Bridenbaugh so much worry, for the team is blessed with a health of ball totting material, in Ridley, Kneram, Capito, Lane, Nickum, Captain Kominie and Mister Gardner. The reserves look good, and several of them will show up better with a little more experience.

Are Eating Plenty
This week in camp is doing the boys a world of good. The fine pure air at camp, the daily drills, and good cool nights are being enjoyed. The boys all have good appetites according to Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner and Mister Gardner. Went on to enumerate some of the items of food that are consumed daily. Seven pounds of butter, several gallons of milk, two or three gallons of ice cream, 15 loaves of white bread and about 12 loaves of brown bread, and tomatoes and corn by the bushels. How would you like to feed this small sized army three times a day? It's a tough job, but one of the most willing jobs in camp.

Well, its just two weeks from tomorrow night that Head Coach Phil Bridenbaugh must trot out his 1933 edition for inspection of the fans. Braddock high is the opposition. Not much time left to whip a working machine into smooth running order but no task is too big for genial Phil to perform and when it comes time the New Castle High School football team is going to be ready and as near perfect as is humanly possible to be.

TORONTO, Aug. 31.—Marvin Nelson, of Fort Dodge, Iowa, today held the distinction of being the first man ever to win the Canadian national exhibition's fifteen-mile swimming championship marathon twice.

The Iowa marvel repeated his victory of 1930 when he lowered the record set by George Blagdon, of Memphis, Tenn., last year, finishing first in the fast time of 7:00:37 2-5 here yesterday. Bagden's mark was 7:19:51. Nelson will receive $5,000.

Babe Ruth Will Likely Quit At End Of Season

Babe Ruth Will Not Likely Sign Up For '34 Season; Legs Are Going Bad

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Babe Ruth, baseball's mightiest hitter probably will end his playing career with the close of the 1933 season.

The New York Yankees' clouting king, the greatest drawing card the game has ever known, was not quite certain about it today, but he said he saw no way to sign up as an active player.

I guess I might as well hang up the spikes," said Ruth, back from the Yankees' western trip which dropped them completely out of the American League pennant race. "I can't sign up as a player next year. The legs won't stand it. I might get by at first base, but not in the outfield. I'm through."

Ruth's admission today followed a report in Detroit yesterday that he had told a close friend: "There is no use kidding myself. If I signed a contract as an active player next year, I would be taking money under false pretenses." Asked about managing a club, Ruth said he might do that or just retire for a season.

Giants-Braves Open Up Series

Crucial Series For Boston Braves Opens Today In New York City

RALPH BIRKOFER
TAMES PHILLIES

By COPELAND C. BURG
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Hip-Hip-Hurray! Set of those roman candles! Let the hand begin to play! That's the way we expect we should feel today with the New York Giants, National League leaders, meeting the threatening Boston Braves this afternoon in the first game of the so-called "crucial series," but as a matter of fact our temperature wouldn't cook an egg. As we see it the six-game series is "crucial" only for the battling Braves and if they fail to do better than make a fair showing they are going to slide right out of the pennant chase. The Giants, six games in the lead, can play some pretty ragged ball and still remain somewhat in the picture.

Heavy Hitters.
Naturally there should be some thrilling baseball, no matter who wins, with hitters like Wally Berger and Pinkie Whitney of the Braves standing in front of pitchers like Carl Hubbell and Hal Schumacher of the Giants.

It's doubtful, but the tribe may have been taking things easy yesterday to be in top shape for the New York series, but they did not look so coming from behind to win from the weak Cincinnati club, 3 to 2, in the ninth inning. And the best the Braves could do was break even with the cellar champs in the four-game series. The Braves made 11 hits off St. Johnson but when it came to scoring something always got in their hair and Rabbit Maranville just managed to poke a single to score Whitney for the winning tally.

Huck Betts was good for Boston, letting down the Reds with five safeties, three of which were grabbed by Chick Hafey.

The Giants were not so sparkling, either, against St. Louis. They managed to smother yesterday's tilt from the Cardinals, 5 to 4, in the ninth. The victory, however, gave them only two games out of the five-game series with the Cards. Dizzy Dean had the New Yorkers eating out of his hand until Manager Bill Terry and Lefty O'Doul cracked homers to tie the score in the fourth inning, after the Cardinals put over two tallies in the first inning and two more in the second.

O'Doul came up in the ninth with the bags full of Giants. He poled a twisting infield hit and Moore scored with the run that counted most. Hal Schumacher, starting badly, outpitched Dean, the Giants getting ten hits against nine for St. Louis. Both pitchers struck out six men and both walked six.

Pittsburgh made it four straight from the Phillies as Ralph Birkhofer allowed only four hits in a 5 to 1 victory. Birkhofer got two safeties to aid his triumph. Chuck Klein tripled in the ninth and scored on Gus Suhr's error to save the Phils from a shutout.

Charlie Root won a hurling duel from Hollis Thurston as the Cubs beat Brooklyn, 2 to 1, in the opener, the Dodgers snagging the night cap, 7 to 3. Linus Frey, the 150-pound youngster up from Nashville, was the hero of the second game, whacking a single, double and triple to score four of Brooklyn's tallies. This sensational hitting by Brooklyn's new shortstop enabled Ross Ryan to score his first hurling success of the year.

All American League teams were idle.

Name Martin As Aid To Lawther

Former Penn State Captain To Be Assistant Coach At Westminster

TAKES UP DUTIES AS SCHOOL OPENS

JACK MARTIN

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Aug. 31.—Jack Martin, Sharon, has been appointed assistant football coach at Westminster college for the coming year. It was announced Wednesday afternoon at 4:30. Martin will report on September 4 to Coach John Lawther to start the training camp. When 29 members of the squad will be on hand for initial workouts.

Martin's position at Westminster will include also some work as an assistant in the physical education department, and possibly some as an assistant instructor on the faculty. Martin played football and lacrosse at Penn State from 1927 to 1930. He was captain of the 1930 State team, after having starred at guard for the Nittany Lions. Martin was a member of Lion's Paw, honorary senior society at State, and was a member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity.

Last year Martin took post-graduate work at Westminster in psychology and education, and last spring helped Coach Lawther in the spring football drills. His addition to the Titan coaching staff was sanctioned by the athletic council at its meeting on August 11, but it was not until yesterday that final details of the appointment were worked out.

President R. F. Galbreath announced the appointment yesterday after a conference with Martin, and Coach John Lawther expressed himself as very well pleased that Martin had accepted. The Titans have not had an assistant football coach since the 1931 season, and the athletic council felt that Lawther needed assistance in the work of handling the grid squad since his work also includes teaching psychology and education and the coaching of the varsity basketball team.

Martin was a star tackle for four seasons at Sharon high school before entering Penn State, and was captain of the Sharon team for two seasons. Some of the stars who played on Sharon teams while Martin was a member were Dick Booth, later of Pitt; Mike Hardy, later of West Virginia, and Earl Wilson, later of St. Bonaventure.

Martin was born in New Wilmington where his father, W. H. Martin, then conducted a drug store in the college town. Jack now lives with his parents at 211 North Oakland avenue, Sharon.

GOLF FACTS NOT THEORIES!

By ALEX. J. MORRISON

Number 83

ALEX MORRISON says:

It seems to be a habit with a great many players to bend their knees forward in an attempt to loosen up their legs.

The action they produce thereby is most injurious to their swings because this very action must be avoided if possible.

The knees must bend, of course, but only in such a way as to help the side to side motion of the hips.

The proper knee action as well as the much desired breaking up of tension in the legs can be had by simply rolling first one foot then the other toward the inside during the swing.

In the starting position just roll the right foot toward the inside and let most of the weight drop onto the left leg.

Next: Hands at Top of Swing.

Faltering Market Is Bolstered
By Utility Stocks;
Bears Take Hold

RAIL SHARES
EASIER TODAY

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Firmness in the liquor and utility shares bolstered a faltering stock market today in the face of further irregularity in the commodity markets.
The commodity markets were the principal bearish feature as wheat and corn lost from 1 to nearly 5 cents a bushel in the opening trades and cotton lost about 50 cents a bushel before recovering.
National distillers took on some of the old time strength running up to 34 for a net gain of 2 points after a poor start.
Consolidated Gas featured the utilities getting up to 51 for a net gain of nearly a point.
Railroad shares were generally easy with prices holding in a fairly narrow range.
Gold mining shares were again subjected to profit taking with both Alaska Juneau and the other issues losing fractionally.
Among the more volatile trading favorites Allied Chemical and Celanese gave good performance both getting up more than a point each.
Trading was dull throughout the forenoon and the ticker at no time had difficulty in keeping up with the market.

Gridders Get Skull
Drill Here Today

Ellwood High Football Squad
Being Put Through Two Drills Daily

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 31.—Lincoln field for the first time this week today has let down from its program of intense activity as Coach George "Ganz" Benedict and his assistant Mike Ferrare put a squad of about 60 Ellwood High grid aspirants through their paces in preparation for the coming season.

Due to the weather this morning the entire squad stood indoors and were given a skull drill by the coaches. A number of elementary plays were diagramed on a black board and explained in detail by the coaches. The squad is expected to number about a hundred at the opening of school next week.

For the past three days the squad has been placed through a stiff program of calisthenics and conditioning. To date no one has dropped out. Yesterday veteran members of last year were lined up into two teams and given a signal drill. Assistant Coach Ferrare has been working out with several line prospects and seems to be rather pleased with the results. With quite a bit more seasoning he is of the opinion that Ellwood High will present a capable line. With the exception of Alfred Beane and Milton Laxenburg Coach Benedict is rather his for weight in the backfield, although he is not dissatisfied since the available material is fast and shifty.

If the weather clears up at all today the squad will hold a practice session on the field again.

Drill Problems For Cavalrymen At Camp Rickard

Members Of 103rd Cavalry
Are Entering Final
Stretch In Camp

FINAL DRILLS ARE BEING HELD

(International News Service)
CAMP RICKARDS, COLEBROOK, Pa., Aug. 31.—Entering the last stage of a two weeks' training period, the 103rd Cavalry regiment under the command of Col. Arthur C. Colahan, Philadelphia, today assembled on the parade grounds and went through their final drill problem.

As the first and second squadrons staged a maneuver showing the different phases of action when two bodies of cavalry meet in opposition, the third squadron viewed the movements from a hilltop bordering the field. The move was repeated three times, giving each squadron an opportunity to observe the other two in action.

In this maneuver, one squadron entered the grounds from the upper field while the other advanced from the direction of Mt. Gretna. As they neared each other, advance guards and points were sent into the field, followed by the main body. The men dismounted as the troops met in order to fight on foot.

Praised By Officers
The main purpose of the problem was to bring out the proper way in which to approach the enemy in time of war. Superior officers highly praised the troops that participated in the maneuver.

This afternoon, the troopers were to start packing their equipment for the departure early Saturday morning. A final mounted review will be held tomorrow morning in honor of Colonel Colahan and the regimental staff officers.

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Aug. 31.—Miss Elia Stein, 24, Pittsburgh physical education instructor, is ready to write a book or an encyclopedia concerning hitch-hiking.

It will include the following facts: Men are the best bets for lifts. Women seldom give a girl a ride, but will pick up boys and young men.

That talk of danger is "just talk." That you can get along comfortably on two dollars a day. That most hitch-hikers today are looking for work.

That almost without exception no provision is made for harboring homeless girls.

She added that in her 10,000 mile, 61-day journey from Pittsburgh to Agua Caliente, Mex., to Vancouver, B. C., she walked a total of less than 150 miles.
